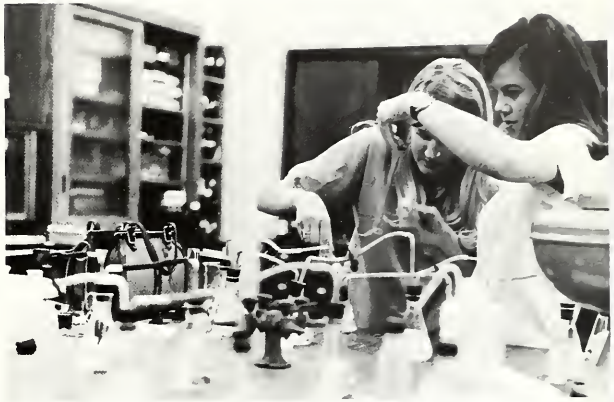
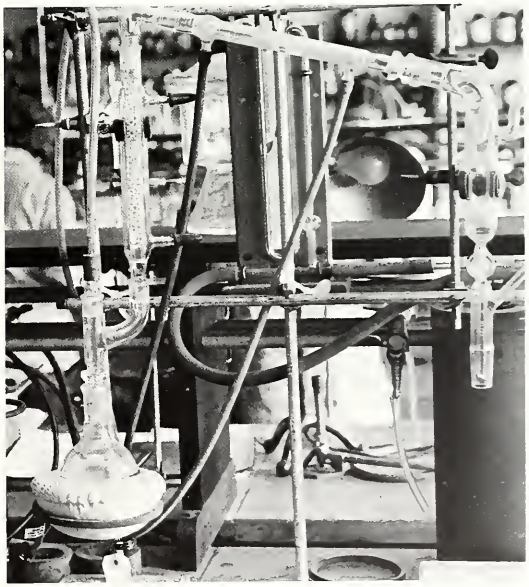
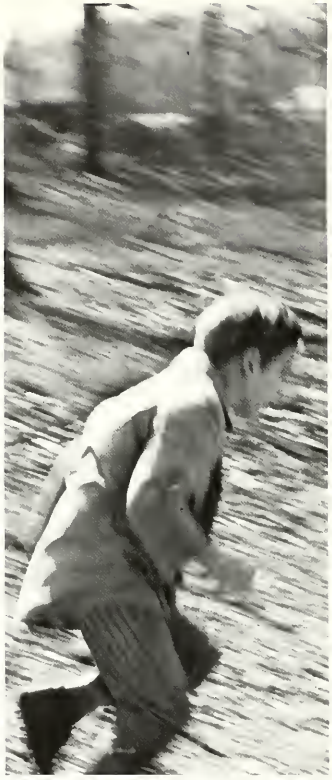
God moves from Whole to Parts: but the human soul
Must rise from Individual to the Whole. — Pope







I was ready to be sought by those who did not ask for me.
I was ready to be found by those who did not seek me.
I said, "Here am I, here am I." — Isaiah 65:1

I wanted only to try to live in accord with the promptings which came from my true self. Why was that so difficult? — Hesse

And since you know you cannot see yourself
So well as by reflection . . . I your glass
Will modestly discover to yourself
That of yourself which you yet know not of.
— Shakespeare

I celebrate myself, and sing myself,
And what I assume you shall assume,
For every atom belonging to me as good belongs to you. — Whitman

I am moved by fancies that are curled
Around these images and cling:
The notion of some infinitely gentle
Infinitely suffering thing. — Eliot

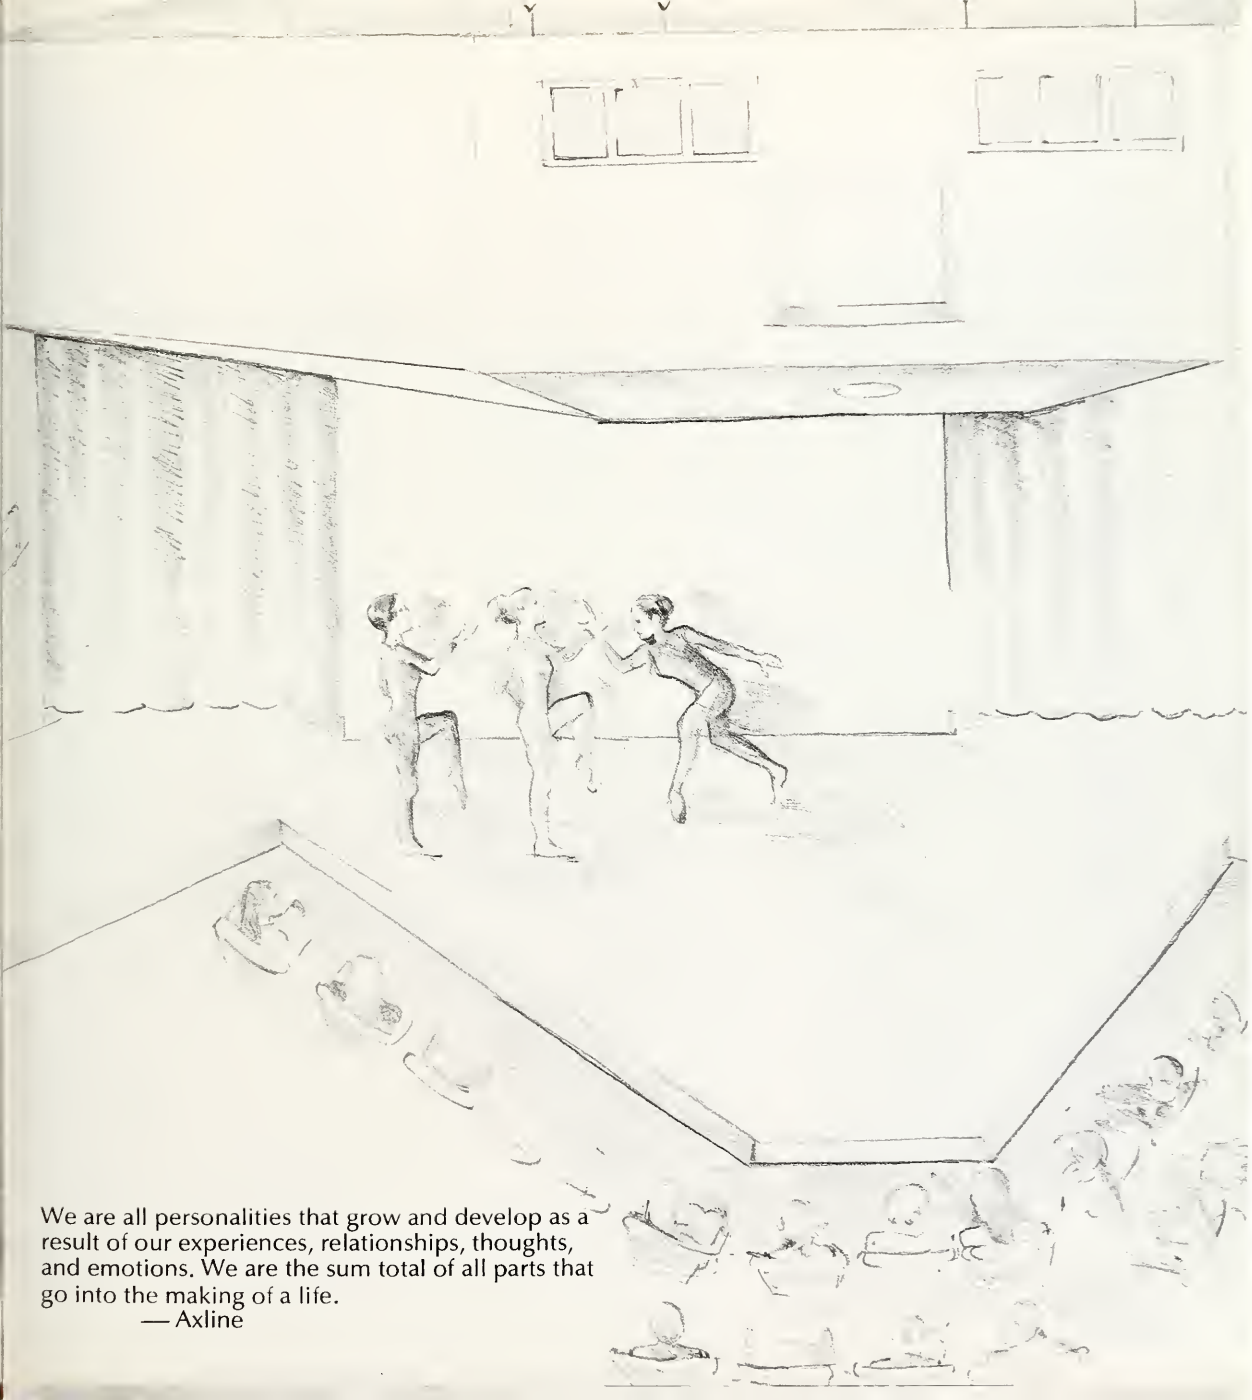
In Memoriam
Edna Hanley Byers
1901-1972

May no fate willfully misunderstand me
And half grant what I wish and snatch me away
Not to return. Earth's the right place for love:
I don't know where it's likely to go better.
I'd like to go by climbing a birch tree,
And climb black branches up a snow-white trunk
Toward heaven, till the tree could bear no more,
But dipped its top and set me down again.
That would be good both going and coming back.
One could do worse than be a swinger of birches.

from "Birches" — Robert Frost



We are all personalities that grow and develop as a result of our experiences, relationships, thoughts, and emotions. We are the sum total of all parts that go into the making of a life.

— Axline

CLEARS
The Quick and Easy Way to Beauty

Some time early in life he recognizes that he is a participant in, and yet someone apart from, events in the physical and social world in which he lives. — Jersild

The desire for community — the wish to live in trust and brotherly cooperation with one's fellows — has been a part of life since the beginning. — Asbury

Each of us has an individuality—
a being requiring speciality,
uniqueness, solitude, . . .

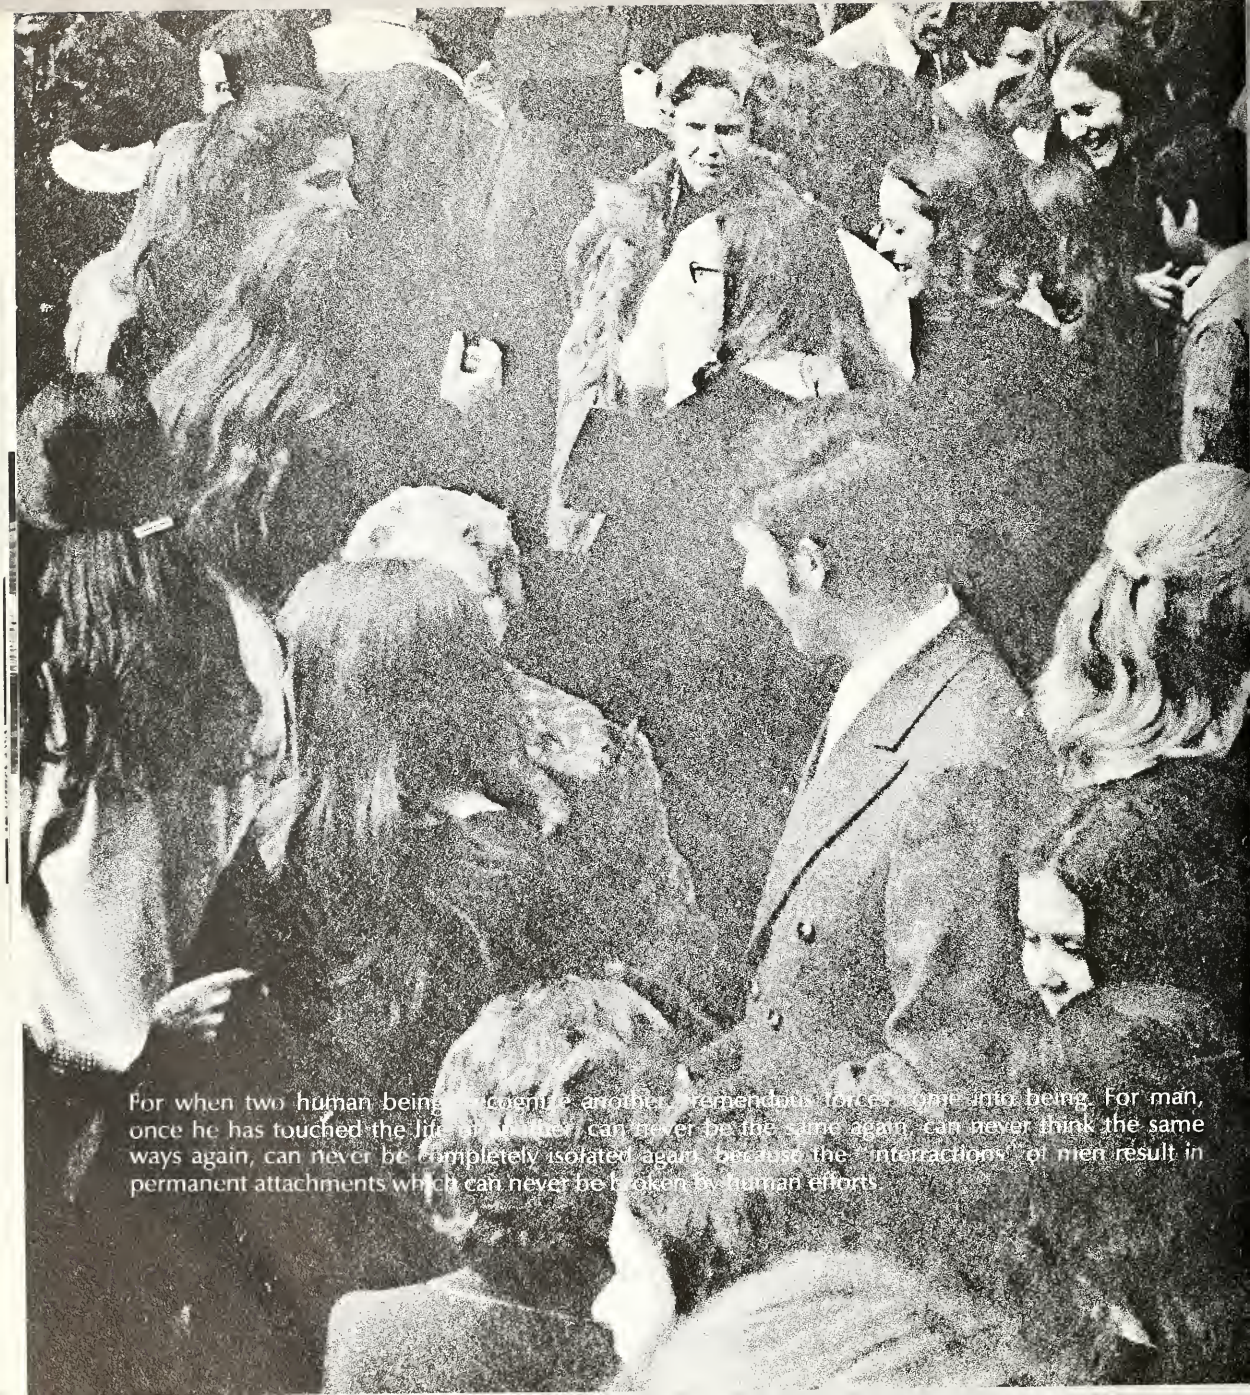
but this individuality, so tightly intertwined with the basic and overwhelming needs, reaches out for other elements to integrate into its whole, seeking sympathy, compassion,
companionship,
and friendship, . . .



For when two human beings [illegible] another, tremendous forces come into being. For man, once he has touched the life in another, can never be the same again, can never think the same ways again, can never be completely isolated again, because the "interactions" of men result in permanent attachments which can never be broken by human efforts.

Acknowledgements

A great deal of effort goes into a publication such as the 1972 Silhouette - and a lot of the behind the scenes work should be recognized. The staff would like to thank all friends, who, under a slight bit of force, volunteered their talents: the darkroom contingent consisting of Carolyn Arant, Martha Bell, and Penny Gilbert; special speed typists Jean Jennings and Pam Westmoreland; and quick action photographers Cindy Percival, John Howick, and Cavett Taff. For special effects we would like to thank Miss Cile Tanner and her second grade class at Toney Elementary School. And with much gratitude we appreciate the co-operation of the Dean's Staff and the Security policemen for those late night dates in the Campbell darkroom. Without the generosity of Dr. Ardis Cramer and the Biology department for the loan of the darkroom, half of this year's book would be dedicated to glorious white space. Also, we appreciated the Atlanta Braves humoring us and allowing us to interrupt their pregame practice.

Finally, and of considerable importance, the integral "cogs" in the production wheel - our publisher's representative Mr. Bill Wolfe who encouraged and criticized as needed, Mr. Eric Lewis who, in my book, still remains the miracle worker come materialization of needed supplies and /or photographs, Suzie Miller for her inspiration and good-natured adaptibility, Montie Smith for her patience and thoroughness,and Lucy Lewis, perhaps my ultimate critic, but a great source of information and a very helpful friend when one is in desperate need.

I personally would like to express my appreciation to the staff for their patience; I consider myself very lucky to have had such a dedicated and hardworking staff despite the numerous set backs. And then there is my Assistant Editor, Lady Wornat, the most discerning proof-reading eye on the staff and the best darkroom assistant I have had and who has freely volunteered her time at the critical moments - much to my relief - thank you.
